Asks for a Tent

I am conducting a small mission. I am try-ing to get a tent to travel from place to place this unmer, preaching. I take this means of apreading the gospel of our Lord. I am ad-tised of friends to ask your Corner for a tent.

From my heart do I wish that you may secure it! The Corner is honored by your application to it for the facilities for carrying forward your holy mission. We succeed marvelously (and, we devoutly believe, by divine favor) in forwarding Christian mis-sions in many places. It is not impossible that a tent used by camping parties may be offered in response to your appeal. We have supplied churches with organs. Why not a shelter for the man who preaches in God's first temples—the groves of His planting?

Sent Quilt Pieces

I thank you for the address of Nancy D. I sent her a package of qulit pieces and received such a nice letter of thanks from her. Even if it is such a small favor one likes to know if it is appreciated. It was an effort for her to write, crippled as ahe is, so I will remember her occasionally by sonding cards and qulit pieces, as she seems to lind enjoyment in that way and can employ many lonely hours. J. E. H. Thanks are due to you from us for teling of the parcel forwarded to the crippled quilt maker. I am glad she wrote to you of the comfort the gift brought her. Surprise Anniversary Party

Burprise Anniversary Party

Bear Deborok Rush—I am destrous of knowing how to conduct a surprise party to be given to some married friends of mine whose tenth wedding anniversary it will be. What should we take as presents? Can you augest how we can get up a supper and still keep them ignorant of the fact that we are going there to surprise them?

The tenth anniversary is the tin one, so the presents should be chosen from that ware. Useful things and funny ones as well can be procured in this metal, so you ought to be able to find some very original things for presents. A light supper could be prepared by the women of the party which may consist of lettuce sandwiches, minced chicken and mayonnaise sandwiches, and cheese sandwiches. Cakes and candles may also be provided, and if more substantial refreshments are desirable, why not prepare salads and convey any or aff of these things to the house with you in a basket or boxes. Let the men in the party provide the fee cream. They can castly arrange to have it delivered late, or if that is not possible they could have a great deal of fun bringing the freezers themselves. Taking everything with you, there would be no reason for your friends to suspect that you are about to surprise to suspect that you are about to surprise

Bread and Butter Letters

Dear Debornh Rush—Will you help me on a little point of eliquette? Do you think when I have stayed only one night at the house of a friend it is necessary to write her mother a letter thanking her for her hospitality?

INQUINER.

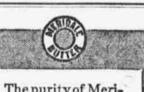

The writing of a short letter does not require much time and yet it is always greatly appreciated by one's hostess, who immediately labels one in her mind as a lady or gentleman, as the case may be. Etiquette requires that a courtesy should always be acknowledged, therefore "a bread and butter" letter, as it is often called, is considered necessary.

Cutting of Dances

Cutting of Dances

Dear Deborth Rush—I am spending the summer at a nearby watering place and am very puzzled at the way the young ladies behave about their dances. In the little town I come from when a man asks a zirl to dance and she accepts, she always dances the whole dance with him. Here you scarcely get around the room before another fellow asks her to dance and she just drops you and goes with him. The first time this happened I was about ready to call the fellow out, but I noticed several others doing the same thing. Then later when we were going home I heard one of the girls say. "I had a grand time: I cut every dance two or three times." So will you kindly explain to me what the idea is? B, G. F.

The custom of cutting in on another's dance has long been in vogue in this city and pretty much everywhere, though I understand it is not done in New Orleans, for derstand it is not done in New Orleans, for instance. The local custom, however, makes it perfectly within good form to break in on a dance, and though the men as a rule do not like it, many girls have grown to think they have not had a good time unless they have had said dance broken into less they have had each dance broken into three or four times. It is more a question of custom than etiquette, but it is an understood thing, so every man must expect it and accept it with good grace,
